Dear Ms. Sutton:

Below is a communication I have received from Brian Mast, advising of what appears to be a pending "current study" by the State of Florida.

As a native born Floridian and resident of Palm Beach County for more than 50 years, I submit to you, representing Florida government, that it is way past time for another "study". Every rational person who has taken the time to focus on the subject of toxic algae blooms, that have plagued our state since the early 1980s, knows both the cause and the "fix" for this calamity. If not for past political corruption this disaster would have been solved long ago. "Study" is just a dressed up name for "more delay". Citizens are tired of our government not functioning, at both the federal and state level, and they are taking action to demand and to effect better performance.

Therefore I urge you to cut through the red tape and get Florida moving on a REAL FIX, NOW!

Respectfully,
