I live on a brown waterfront canal lined with mangroves. Its brown because we all have septic tanks around here. Id much rather have my tax money going to sewer lines then to more government employees. Last year we couldnt leave our house for a week because of the red tides off fort pierce. When we did we wore hospital masks. This is way past being acceptable. It time that farmers,landscapers,water management districts,county and state governments be held accountable. Everyone is responsible, even me with my septic tank, but I cant install my own sewer in the street.
