Subject: We need stricter limits of Toxic algae in Florida

Florida's environment IS its economy. It should be a no-brainer to require stricter limits of Toxic algae in our waters. Gov. Ron DeSantis' Algae Task Force, as well as many independent environmental and conservation organizations agree that we need stronger rules in Florida.

The Federal government has proven by the adoption of less stringent requirements that it no longer has the best interests of the people of Florida where health and drinking water is concerned.

Thus, it is paramount that the health of the people is given PRIORITY at our state level.

No amount of money savings or job creation will be able to undo the damage that will occur if we don't stop the furtherance of the destruction of our water quality by these toxins.

Please proceed on the side of abundant caution, no matter the monetary costs and pass and enforce stricter rules.

Thank you.
