

APPENDIX 10.1
COORDINATION

Numerous federal, state, regional, and local agencies and entities have been contacted by the GREC project team members to discuss GREC, answer questions, and solicit input. Through these contacts, the GREC team received agency input on applicable regulatory requirements, technical approaches for licensing, and key issues or concerns that needed to be addressed in the project planning and in this SCA. The following provides a summary of the governmental agencies that have been contacted during the planning and preparation of this SCA for GREC. Several of these agencies have been contacted multiple times during the siting, development, planning, and SCA preparation efforts.

In addition to agency contacts, the City of Gainesville's and GRU's decision to proceed with GREC was the result of an extensive planning process, including a wide-ranging public participation/outreach program. Over a 6-year period beginning in the fall of 2003, the public participation/outreach component of the planning process involved more than 43 community workshops and formal presentations to public policymakers and 27 televised Gainesville City Commission meetings dedicated to the City's long-term energy supply strategy. In addition, there have been several dozen meetings and presentations with civic groups throughout the community.
