

ADMIRAL MASON PARK

Admiral Mason Park is a regional stormwater pond and park east of the heart of the downtown Pensacola entertainment, shopping and historic districts. It is the intent of the City to model the Corrine Jones Park into a similar facility to provide a functional, sustainable amenity on the City's west side, which will also benefit the developing culturally-diverse Belmont-DeVilliers historic district a few blocks north of the Corrine Jones Park area.

