The South Walton Community Council (SWCC) is a registered 501c3 nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving, protecting and enhancing the quality of life and unique natural environment in South Walton County in the Florida Panhandle.

Founded in 1995, SWCC is a nonpartisan coalition of residents, property owners, area employees, neighborhood associations, business owners and community leaders working together toward shared goals.

Through educational programs, community outreach, capacity building, and issue advocacy, SWCC works to preserve South Walton's fine natural assets: beaches, dunes, coastal dune lakes, floodplains, wetlands, forests and native vegetation.

The Board of South Walton Community Council endorses and approves the September 2019 draft of the Topsail Hill Preserve Park. We have attended public workshops and expressed our support of this unique ecosystem in Walton County. The park continues to attract residents and tourists, managing to be profitable due to excellent management, preservation and forward planning for future improvements.

Thank you.
